

575 Wyndham Road.
Teaneck, N.J.
February 20, 1936

Dear Sam:

This letter is of no immediate importance and is meant to be read at your leisure if you ever have such periods.

The basis of this letter is changing America. Having been a business man I know that American people like organization. An army on the march needs coordination and God needs a spark plug to bring the American machine to life. Such a spark plug might be found in coordination. That is, making available the brains, ideas and combined force of the people living this kind of life.

One of the attractive things about the group is the fluidity and lack of rigidity. At the same time would it be helpful to have a coordination plan worked out in a business like way? The first step might be the establishing of a clearing house and the second, the tying together of an intimate roster of people through out the world who have found God through the group.

Through such a roster it might be possible to have: —

1. Concerted guidance by the mass for the mass.
2. An internationally guided movement.
3. Concerted prayer for objectives.
4. Simultaneous action.
5. Action by surrounding waves of 'availables' when a certain geographical area is being attacked.
6. Every one kept right up to date on developments.
7. Help extended where needed.
8. Proper publicity.
9. Directed continuance.
10. A regular information sheet that might turn into a guided and regular publication.
11. Guided political pressure.
12. Guided reading.
13. Guided life changing.

A clearing house could help people that want help in planning special work. It could serve to place people in employment. It could help in organizing work.

[page 2]

The first step toward assembling a roster might be a leaflet with a questionarre [sic] to people living this way of life. The leaflet to sketch questions for guidance and help in working the plan out. The quesstionarre [sic] to be the foundation of a card system which would index the information.

I have only mentioned a few of the thoughts I have had on the subject. If there is any idea here that might be the basis for a helpful conversation, I am at your command,

Sincerely,

Henry Parkhurst